Welcome Remarks

Dear distinguished students, coaches, and arbitrators,

It is our privilege to welcome you to the 10th Annual Tbilisi Vis Pre-Moot! To our colleagues outside of Georgia, we would love for you to be reading this message while boarding your flights to the beautiful city of Tbilisi, but this year's competition will be the virtual edition. While we are unable to invite you to Tbilisi this year, we hope to evoke the spirit of Georgia and the Caucasus during the program.

Since the competition will be held virtually, we have had the unique opportunity to invite universities from around the globe to compete against teams from the Caucasus. As you will read in the program book, this year's competition will be one of the most geographically diverse in the history of the Tbilisi Vis Pre-Moot with fourteen teams representing nine countries and three continents. We will also be joined by more than 50 arbitrators and legal professionals from around the world, who have committed their time to judging the competition.

The Tbilisi Vis Pre-Moot was launched ten years ago by Georgian Vis Moot alumni, who were striving to develop arbitration in Georgia and support the educational opportunities for law students in the Caucasus. As one of the first pre-moots of the cycle, the goal was to help teams develop confidence by testing their knowledge, arguments, and skills in a public setting. The Tbilisi Pre-Moot has since distinguished itself from other pre-moots by providing a unique learning environment for teams as they continue their preparation for the Willem C. Vis International Commercial Arbitration Moot. This year will be no different.

Ultimately, our goal is to encourage the exchange of ideas and experiences among participating students, coaches, and arbitrators, all of whom share a passion for international commercial law and arbitration. Therefore, we have planned an opening ceremony with a diverse set of speakers, and we have selected topics that will help prepare the teams for competing in this pre-moot and later competitions. We also have some social and cultural exercises planned so that the teams can interact virtually on a non-competitive level. We hope that all the teams will join us for the full program, which will be capped off with an award ceremony after the final round of the competition.

We truly believe that this is the best place to start the Vis Moot journey. Enjoy the pre-moot and best of luck in Vindobona!

Sincerely,

The Tbilisi Vis Pre-Moot Organizers

About the Tbilisi Vis Pre-Moot

The Willem C. Vis International Commercial Arbitration Moot Court was born out of the impression that both international commercial law and arbitration practice were underrepresented in legal education. Therefore, although the Moot is structured as a competition, it is primarily designed to be an educational tool that teaches advocacy skills and enables students to get to know unfamiliar fields of law.

The Tbilisi Vis Pre-Moot aims to reinforce the educational opportunity Vis Moot provides, in both the substantive knowledge of commercial law and arbitration and advocacy skills as it provides a dress rehearsal for the teams to practice their skills and arguments with other participants in front of experienced practitioners serving as arbitrators and to benefit from their constructive feedback.

The Tbilisi Pre-Moot also strives to be much more than an educational event. The competition and preceding opening ceremony serve as a platform for professional networking of practitioners and faculty from different parts of the world as well as for students to establish relationships with prominent lawyers and professors working in the fields of international commercial law and arbitration. As Professor Eric Bergsten, founder of Vis Moot, noted, these social contacts provide the "lubrication" that makes international commercial law function smoothly.

We very much hope that the mix of international spirit of the event and the enthusiasm of the Georgian students and commitments of participating arbitrators and legal professionals from Georgia and around the world will ensure that the Tbilisi Vis Pre-Moot is here to stay, allowing all participants to improve their skills and arguments in a friendly and professional atmosphere.

Organizers & Sponsors

The 10th Annual Tbilisi Vis Pre-Moot was organized by the U.S. Department of Commerce Commercial Law Development Program, in cooperation with Arbitration Initiative Georgia, and is made possible through funding by the U.S. Department of State.

The Commercial Law Development Program (CLDP) provides technical assistance to the governments and private sectors of transitional countries to improve the legal environment for doing business, thereby fostering greater political stability and economic opportunity for local entrepreneurs and U.S. companies. CLDP's technical assistance programming uses CLDP attorneys and subject-matter experts to provide legal capacity building for government officials, legal professionals, private sector representatives, and civil society organizations of developing countries.

CLDP has worked for many years with UNCITRAL and the Center for International Legal Education (CILE) at the University of Pittsburgh School of Law to organize regional Vis Pre-Moot competitions around the world. These competitions aim to prepare teams for the Willem C. Vis International Commercial Arbitration Moot and support the development of international commercial arbitration. Through these programs, CLDP has cultivated a collaborative network of arbitration specialists of over 300 students, lawyers, and judges from over 15 countries. Program graduates become recognized as part of a unique group of multi-lingual experts with practical legal experience in international commercial arbitration.

CLDP's support of the Tbilisi Vis Pre-Moot is one aspect of its work in Georgia and the Caucasus region. This program is truly significant for the Caucasus and the larger Europe-Eurasia region, because it not only promotes commercial arbitration, but also helps to build awareness around the importance of commerce and economic development and investment. In today's interconnected world with increased flows of commerce, drafting accurate contracts and effectively resolving disputes becomes more important than ever.

Arbitration Initiative Georgia (AIG) is a non-governmental organization established by the Georgian alumni of the Willem C. Vis International Commercial Arbitration Moot. Based on the initiative of young professionals and students, AIG aims to enhance and promote the field of alternative dispute resolution in Georgia. AIG's activities include convening international and local arbitration conferences and trainings, as well as preparation of publications in the field of alternative dispute resolution and commercial law. For more information about AIG please visit <http://www.arbitration.ge/>.

Jaba Gvelebiani is the Head of Legal Practice at KPMG Georgia. Before joining KPMG, Jaba worked at LPA Law Firm for 8 years. He holds a B.A. in Law from Tbilisi State University, an LL.M. in International Business Law from Central European University, and an MBA in Management from Business & Technologies University.

Jaba's academic experience includes teaching arbitration law at the Georgian Institute of Public Affairs, teaching international commercial arbitration and international business transactions at the University of Georgia and teaching international business law at Ilia State University.

Jaba is the director of AIG and a member of the management board of the Georgian Association of Arbitrators.

Teona Sesitashvili graduated with honors from the LL.B. program of Tbilisi State University. She holds an LL.M. degree in Comparative Private and International Law from New Vision University (Georgia).

Teona was a participant of the 25th Willem C. Vis International Commercial Arbitration Moot. She currently works in the Legal department of a leading IT company in Georgia.

Teona joined the Tbilisi Pre-Moot organizing team in 2019 and was a lead organizer of the 9th Tbilisi Vis Pre-Moot.

Amirreza Vahedi

Team member

Amirreza Vahedi is enrolled in the LL.M. program in International Commercial Arbitration Law at the University of Stockholm. He is originally from Iran and has another Master's degree in International Trade and Economic Law from the University of Tehran. He developed his interest in ADR mechanisms during his studies in Tehran when he participated for the first time in the Willem C. Vis moot competition. He also obtained practical experience through different internship programs and was the Safe Bana construction company's contract advisor in Iran. In his leisure time, Mr. Vahedi enjoys playing video games, reading, and learning ancient languages.

Stockholm University

Paavo Paukamainen

Team member

Originally from Finland, now living in Sweden, Paavo Paukamainen is an LL.M. candidate in the International Commercial Arbitration Law program at Stockholm University. He also holds a law degree from Finland. His interest in dispute resolution, commercial law and business originates from the simple need to solve problems. Apart from dispute resolution related activities, he seeks solutions to different puzzles by pursuing projects as an entrepreneur and investor. He hopes that everyone has an enjoyable Vis experience. Since it is not possible to meet in Vienna this year, feel free to drop a message and connect on LinkedIn.

Andreas Holst

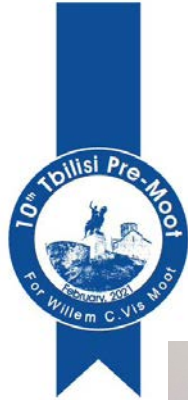

Team member

Andreas Holst studies at the Swedish Law Program at Stockholm University and has developed a genuine interest in international trade and dispute resolution. He is currently writing his master thesis on arbitration. His interest in international arbitration has resulted in him participating in the Willem C. Vis Moot, with a prospective goal to practice both arbitration and cross-border litigation. To achieve that, Mr. Holst is looking for an internship at a law firm and intends to pursue an LL.M. degree in arbitration. As the only team member from Sweden, Andreas feels responsible for hosting others in Stockholm.
