International Trade Law Clerk Positions

The Office of the Chief Counsel for Trade Enforcement & Compliance (CC-TEC) is the principal legal advisor to Enforcement & Compliance, an agency of the International Trade Administration (ITA) at the U.S. Department of Commerce. CC-TEC advises E&C regarding legal issues that arise during antidumping (unfair pricing) and countervailing duty (foreign government subsidization) proceedings. CC-TEC also defends E&C's determinations before federal courts, USMCA panels, and in WTO dispute settlement proceedings.

CC-TEC's work is generally divided into two categories – administrative work and litigation. Administrative work includes providing detailed legal advice regarding the complex statutory and regulatory provisions under which antidumping and countervailing duty determinations are made, to ensure that they are consistent with the statute. Litigation work includes drafting briefs before the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit, the Court of International Trade as well as potential submissions for WTO and USMCA disputes. In addition, law clerks may have the opportunity to assist in rulemakings and other special projects, and are encouraged to attend CC-TEC staff meetings, meetings with ITA staff, and Federal Circuit hearings.

Law clerks report to and work under the close supervision of both staff attorneys and senior counsel. Assignments are coordinated in a manner that ensures the law clerks work with numerous CC-TEC attorneys and have exposure to a broad range of legal issues and tasks. Completed work is reviewed by attorneys for research effectiveness, soundness of approach and legal argument, proper application of legal precepts, and consistency with instructions. We have hired several former law clerks as staff attorneys.
